Note: The shaded bars indicate periods of business recession as defined by the National Bureau of Economic Research: January 1980-July 1980, July 1981-November 1982, July 1990-March 1991, March 2001-November 2001, December 2007-June 2009, and February 2020-April 2020. GDP is gross domestic product.

This is a line chart titled “Banks' CET1 Risk-based Capital Ratio”. The x-axis measures time and ranges from years 2001 to 2023. The y-axis measures the ratio ranges from 0 to 16. The data are quarterly ending in 2023:Q4. There are three variables plotted on the chart. The first series is labeled ‘U.S. G-SIBs. This series is designated by a red line and ranges from about 4.5 to 13. The variable begins at a ratio of around 7 and remains near this level through 2007. The variable declines to a trough in late 2008 and then steadily increases through mid-2015. The series then plateaus at a ratio between 12 and 13. The series increased slightly to its peak value in 2023:Q4. The second series, labeled ‘Large non-G-SIBs’, is designated by a blue line and ranges from just around 6 to just above 12. This variable begins at about 7.5 and remains around this ratio through mid-2007. The series declines to a trough value in late 2008 and then increases steadily through early 2014. The series then plateaus at a ratio between 11 and 12 percent. The latest reading lies in this range. The third series, labeled ‘Other BHCs’, is designated by the black line. The series begins at a ratio over 9 and slowly declines to its trough value in late 2008. The series then increases steadily through mid-2012 and then plateaus at a ratio between 12 and 13. The latest reading lies in this range.

Note: The data are seasonally adjusted by Federal Reserve Board staff. The sample consists of domestic bank holding companies (BHCs) and intermediate holding companies (IHCs) with a substantial U.S. commercial banking presence. U.S. G-SIBs are U.S. global systemically important banks. Large non-G-SIBs are BHCs and IHCs with greater than $100 billion in total assets that are not G-SIBs. CET1 stands for common equity Tier 1 capital, which is the numerator of the CET1 ratio. Before 2014:Q1 (advanced-approaches BHCs) or before 2015:Q1 (non-advanced-approaches BHCs), the numerator of the CET1 ratio is approximated by Tier 1 common capital. The denominator is risk-weighted assets. The shaded bars indicate periods of business recession as defined by the National Bureau of Economic Research: March 2001-November 2001, December 2007-June 2009, and February 2020-April 2020.

This is a line chart titled “Uninsured Deposits”. The x-axis measures time and ranges from years 2016 to 2023. The y-axis measures the Percent of uninsured deposits relative to assets and ranges from 0 to 40. The data are quarterly ending in 2023:Q4. There are three variables plotted on the chart. The first variable is labeled ‘U.S. G-SIBs’ and is designated with a red line. The series begins at around 23 percent and is relatively flat through 2019. The series increases in 2020 and remains elevated through 2021, achieving its peak in the last quarter of that year. The series declines through the rest of the sample. The second variable is labeled ‘Large non-G-SIBs’ and is designated with a blue, dashed line. The series begins around 27 percent, declines modestly through 2018, and then increases slightly through 2019 and early 2020. The series then increases more significantly through the rest of 2020 and 2021, achieving its peak value in the fourth quarter of that year. The series then fell slowly through 2022, more sharply in early 2023, and has remained flat in recent quarters. The third variable is labelled ‘Regional’ and is represented by the black line. The series begins slightly below 28 percent and remains relatively stable through early 2020. The series then increases steadily to its peak of nearly 37 percent in the fourth quarter of 2021. The series then decreases slowly through 2022, more sharply in early 2023, and has remained relatively flat in recent quarters.

Note: Uninsured deposits are reported by banks with total assets above $1 billion. For smaller banks, uninsured deposits are estimated based on the amount in large deposit accounts, excluding the first $250,000 in each of those accounts. U.S. G-SIBs are U.S. global systemically important banks. Large non-G-SIBs are bank holding companies and intermediate holding companies with greater than $100 billion in total assets that are not G-SIBs. Regional are banks with between $10 billion and $100 billion in total assets.
